SHARE

Shared Habitat Alliance for Recreational
Enhancement program

There are 101 million land acres in California, half of which are privately owned. The goal of the California Department of Fish and Game's (DFG) SHARE Program is to provide additional hunting, fishing and other recreational access on private land in California for current and future generations.

What benefits does the SHARE program provide landowners?

- Liability coverage is provided by section 1573(e) of the Fish and Game Code
- Relief of wildlife depredation damage on property
- Guidance for wildlife habitat improvements

What benefits does the SHARE program provide the public?

- Access to private land
- Access to public land that is landlocked
- More recreational opportunities

What properties qualify for enrollment?

- Property that has hunting opportunities for big game, small game or fishing
- Property that is attractive to bird watchers or hikers
- Property with road access to isolated or landlocked public lands

How does the public get access to a SHARE property?

Find a property on the DFG website and submit an application to access the property.

How do I enroll property into the SHARE program?

- Complete an application. Applications are available on the department's website.
- Submit your application with all other necessary documentation to the SHARE coordinator, who is available for your assistance if you have any questions or need help filling out the application.
- The SHARE coordinator will arrange a good time to visit and evaluate your property.
- Sign an agreement and DFG will take care of the rest.

Recreational users can contribute to the success of the SHARE Program by obeying all DFG regulations and being considerate of participating and non-participating landowners (and their property).
